

Briefing Document: Consecration in Everyday Life

Main Themes:

- Definition of Consecration: Bishop Wellington Boone defines consecration as "whole-hearted devotion to God," encompassing internal transformation and alignment of thoughts, actions, and motivations with a higher purpose.
- Practical Application: Boone emphasizes that consecration is not an abstract concept but a practical way of living, applicable to everyday life and impacting all aspects of our being.
- Relationship with God: Consecration is presented as a pathway to deepening one's relationship with God, achieved through surrender, prayer, and seeking divine guidance.
- Impact on Relationships: Consecration empowers individuals to love more deeply and authentically, extending grace and compassion to even the most challenging relationships.
- Social Impact: Boone highlights the ripple effects of consecration, emphasizing that even small acts of kindness and courage contribute to positive change in the world.

Key Reasons for Consecration (Bishop Wellington Boone):

1. Preparation for an Unknown Future: Consecration equips individuals with the confidence and inner strength to navigate uncertainties and challenges, as illustrated by the story of Joshua leading the Israelites into the Promised Land.
2. "Consecration gives you confidence when you come into unfamiliar territory."
3. Facing God and Enemies: Consecration, fueled by prayer, prepares individuals to face not only God but also internal and external obstacles that hinder spiritual growth and fulfillment.
4. "Prayer is your secret weapon in any crisis."
5. Purification of Heart Motivations: True consecration goes beyond outward actions, focusing on purifying heart motivations and aligning intentions with God's will.
6. "You need to be consecrated because consecration deals with your heart motivations."
7. Averting Judgment and Embracing Presence: Consecration, involving self-reflection and repentance, allows individuals to realign with God's will, averting judgment and inviting His presence.

8. "Consecration means the cessation of all fleshly activity and even spiritual activity for the sake of coming to a place of self-examination..."
9. Strengthening the Weak: Consecration provides access to divine strength, enabling individuals to overcome weakness and tap into a source of power beyond human limitations.
10. "Consecration makes the spiritually weak strong."
11. Path to God Through Jesus: Consecration is the path to God through Jesus, our High Priest who constantly intercedes on our behalf and provides a way to experience God's love and grace.
12. "Consecration is your way to God through the blood of Jesus..."
13. Jesus as a Role Model: Jesus' unwavering devotion to God's will serves as the ultimate model for a consecrated life, inspiring us to align our will with God's, even in the face of challenges.
14. "Jesus is our role model for a consecrated life."

Practical Applications:

- Surrender: Relinquishing control of things we cannot control and trusting in God's plan.
- Prayer: Cultivating a consistent and authentic connection with God through prayer.
- Self-Reflection: Engaging in practices like journaling or meditation to examine motivations and align with God's will.
- Compassionate Action: Extending grace and understanding to others, particularly those who are difficult to love.
- Identifying Gifts and Passions: Recognizing and utilizing unique talents and resources to serve others and make a positive impact in the world.
- Embracing Imperfection: Accepting the journey of consecration as a process of growth and refinement, not striving for unattainable perfection.

Conclusion:

Bishop Wellington Boone's teachings on consecration provide a compelling framework for living a more meaningful and impactful life. By embracing wholehearted devotion to God and applying the principles of consecration, individuals can experience profound personal transformation and contribute to positive change in the world.
